Bismarck in Danger---The Irish Bench---Gladstone Partakes of Tea.

Sir Charles Dilke at Home---The Eighty Club---London Society Club.

[From our own Correspondent.]

BISMARCK IN A PREDICAMENT.

LONDON, Oct. 1.—A delicious story reached your correspondent from Germany, apropos of Prince Bismarck. During his recent stay at Marienbad the Chancellor was in the habit of taking long walks unattended; and one day, finding himself somewhat far from the town, took the shortest out back. His way led him across some fields, and the Prince marched vigorously forward, forgetful of the fact that he was trespassing. Suddenly he was hailed in loud Teutonic tones, and on looking back saw a stout country woman pursuing him. The indignant proprietress of the fields accused him to his face of his offence, and declared that she would follow him and give him in charge. She proved as good as her word, and tramped after the Chancellor until the high road was reached and a police officer came in view. The worthy woman formally made her complaint, and the police officer was about to arrest the offender. Struck by the resemblance of the trespasser to a certain high functionary, the police officer cautiously demanded his name. On hearing the name the policeman was simply paralyzed with fear, and the overbold country woman, gathering up her skirts, fled precipitately. Naturally the police officer was reluctant to take the charge, but Prince Bismarck insisted upon going to the station. When there he charged himself with the offence of trespass, and paid the fine customary in such matters. In addition to this, the Prince sent a present by way of consolation to the woman whose land he had invaded.

VACANCY ON THE IRISH BENCH.

The seat on the Irish Bench rendered vacant by Mr. Justice Lawson's death is still unfilled, and seldom has so much interest been felt with regard to an Irish judicial appointment. As the promotion of one of the judges of the Court of Bankruptcy would effect an immediate saving of £2,000 a year, and hasten reforms to which the leaders of both parties in the Parliament are pledged, financial arguments call for the appointment of Judge Boyd, and his advancement to the Supreme Court would be hailed with acclamation, not only by the legal profession, but by Loyalists throughout the country. By his fearless administration of the law, and more especially by his committing to gaol the Land Leaguers and priests who refused their evidence in his court, he has made enemies of the Parnellites, with whom he was formerly most popular, notwithstanding his pronounced loyalty and Conservatism. Lord Ashbourne, on the other hand, is believed to be now a persona grata to these gentlemen, and, if the gossip of Dublin may be trusted, even Mr. Tim Harrington, M. P., who has just been giving "a taste of his quality" at the Mitchelstown inquest, has been a guest at his table. The Parnellite influence, therefore, is in favor of Mr. Gibson, the Chancellor's brother, who has been Irish Attorney-General during the last session of Parliament. The Irish public are watching the issue as an indication whether Parnellite influence will prevail with the Government, or a desire for economy or efficiency in the administration of the law.

GMADSTONE AND "LADY MARGARET."

On Thursday morning, Mr. Gladstone attended the early service at 8 o'clock. As the ex-premier walks through the village he recognizes old residents, with whom he exchanges a few cheery words. "Lady Margaret" Hughes, who has been more or less familiarly acquainted with the Gladstone family for the past thirty years, and is the oldest village carrier from Hawarden to Chester, was honored by a visit from Mr. and Mrs. Gladstone. "Lady Margaret," it should be stated, is a general favorite, and resides in a small cottage in the village. The visit lasted some little time, and in the homely and humble domicile of their friend Mr. and Mrs. Gladstone partook of tea. The ex-premier is in capital health. There are no visitors at the castle at present.

DILKE AT HOME.

There has been a good deal of gossip lately, says a London correspondent, about Sir Charles Dilke's movements which Truth partly corrects, and to which I should like to add one or two particulars. There is no truth in the report that he intends to take up his residence in France. When he returns from his Constantinople trip in November he will stay a month at Lady Dilke's charming little box at Pyrford, near Woking. Lady Dilke and he will then be at home to their friends in Sloane-street, Chelsea, and Sir Charles' next work will be a preparation of a fresh edition of "Greater Britain." The articles on the army, which are a marvel of accurate research and shrewd criticism, are already in type. Sir Charles lives a quiet, cheerful, and very happy life with Lady Dilke, both of them engrossed in literary work, and surrounded by a small but very attached circle of friends.

BRITISH AND CONTINENTAL.

A correspondent of one of the London evening papers calls out for greater activity on the part of the Eighty Club. This club was originally a band of young men who met under Mr. Albert Grey's presidency in the winter of 1879-80, and under the name of "Grey's Committee" did yeoman's service for Liberal candidates far and wide during the great contest of the ensuing spring. After the election the members of the committee formed themselves into the nucleus of a club, and took for their name that memorable year of Liberal triumph.

The Paris Gaulois has published a very sensational story, to the effect that some person or persons unknown had broken open the granite sepulchre of the First Napoleon lying under the dome of the Invalides, taken out the remains of the great commander, and thrown them into the Seine. The block of red granite which covers Napoleon's remains weighs about ten tons, and, therefore, cannot be easily moved without machinery; I may add that it is guarded night and day, and on Sunday afternoon the monument was unimpaired.

Apropos of the recent burglaries in North London it is worthy of mention as an example of the carelessness of some householders, that a family in a South London suburb recently locked up their house for the holiday season, and put a card on the door: "Notice to Tradesmen. Gone out of town." When they came back they found that burglars could read as well as tradesmen, and that everything that could easily be removed in a light cart had also "gone out of town."

The Prince of Wales has ordered a complete suit of clothing for his youngest son, made of the new life-saving, floating fabric, with which his Royal Highness is much pleased, having witnessed some very successful experiments with it in the Solent. The clothes are to be made as quickly as possible, and sent at once to Prince George in the Mediterranean.

The Times announces that the Nizar of Hyderabad, the first of Indian Princes and our oldest ally in Hindostan, has written to Lord Dufferin offering as a free gift the handsome sum of £100,000 sterling to be devoted to the defence of the Northwest frontier.

VANCOUVER NEWS.

Happenings at the Terminal City---Correction---Wrestling Match.

A few days ago THE TIMES in referring to the death of the unfortunate young man, Fred. Richardson, of this city, said he was refused admission into the hospital. I am glad to say your informant was in error. At the time Dr. Robertson made application for his admission every cot was full; but notwithstanding that he was taken in and put in a bed formerly occupied by a patient who had so far recovered as to enable him to arise until another bed was secured. During the time the steward was procuring the other bed, the deceased patient arose, dressed and in spite of the protestations of the other patients, went away. He signified in writing (he was a deaf mute) that he was only going for a short walk. He was not again seen until his remains were found on the rocks next morning, where the receding tide left them. To a stranger the item as it appeared in THE TIMES, would convey the idea that only a certain class—an upper ten class, as it were—were accorded the benefit of our hospital; but such is not the case. Its doors are wide open to suffering humanity, no matter what the station may be. By inserting this, or something equivalent, you will right a wrong which I know was never intended.

Last night (Saturday) about 500 of the city's sports—newspaper correspondents and reporters excepted—assembled at the rink to witness a wrestling match for the championship of the Canadian Pacific Coast and $250 (?) a side. The contestants were Jack McKeown, a six footer from Winnipeg, and Charley Barr, who tends his own bar in this city. Right here the compositor will tap his stick on the case, which is a good "sub" for a chestnut bell. At the door I noticed McKeown selling tickets and Barr collecting the same, which fact suggested to me that the championship of the Canadian Pacific was not the all-important to this contest. At about nine o'clock the wrestlers appeared, surrounded by their admirers and backers. They enter the ring, and the cheers ascend to the very rafters, which are four feet above us and are very bare. Beside each chair on which the modern gladiator sits is a satchel, which looks as mysterious as boarding house hash. Our curiosity regarding these is soon satisfied, as each of the aforesaid gladiators take therefrom a large bottle. Medicine of course. Time is called by Jack O'Farrel, who was chosen referee, which is the signal for the

FIRST ROUND.

The men step lightly on to the canvas. Both are truly fine specimens of manhood. The Winnipeger stands 6 feet 1 inch in his bare feet, and weighs 208 lbs. With the exception of a rather prominent receptacle for boarding house hospitality, he is one of the finest built men I ever saw. Barr stands 5 feet 10¾ inches; weighs 187 lbs; rather slight body but massive and powerful limbs, and as agile as a cat. McKeown at once began the attack, and then commenced some circling, feints, etc. Suddenly, like a flash, McKeown sprang in and clinched Barr; but the latter while appearing to succumb to the onslaught suddenly twisted himself loose and bounded to the other side of the canvass. McKeown again led the attack. After a few moments scuffling, both men went to their knees together, Barr's head being under McKeown's chest. In this position they rested a moment. McKeown then put his left arm under Barr's body, and for the first time in the evening exhibited his enormous strength. Barr's feet cut a circle through the air, and from being face down, head to the west, he now lay back down, head to the east, and the referee's hand went up with a tragic gesture. First round for McKeown. Time, 10 minutes.

SECOND ROUND.—Both men stepped promptly on the canvass. Barr appeared as fresh as when he began. On the other hand McKeown was puffing; he also looked as though he was going to wind up this round suddenly. He made a dive at Barr and clinched but the latter got the under hold, and a splendid struggle ensued, which finally resulted in both men falling on their sides. Barr broke loose and sprang to his feet, closely followed by his opponent. In a few moments another clinch took place with the same result. In the struggle that followed Barr got both his hands around the back of McKeown's neck. The latter quickly caught him around the waist and lifting him up like a child, sprang forward, both falling heavily, Barr's two shoulders striking the canvass at the same time. Again O'Farrel's hand went starward.

Second round for McKeown. Time, 8 minutes.

THIRD ROUND.—Both men looked a little worse of wear. McKeown again made one of his sudden springs, but was cleverly eluded by Barr, who in turn clinched the Winnipeger and threw him on his face. Here a sharp struggle ensued. McKeown, in endeavoring to turn his opponent, was himself landed square on his back, amid the deafening cheers of the crowd. Third round for Barr. Time, 4½ minutes.

FOURTH ROUND.—Both men advanced cautiously. McKeown suddenly sprang in and a clinch ensued, both men falling on their sides. Barr endeavored to break away again, but his opponent held him firmly, and, exerting his strength once more turned him over until his shoulders met the canvass. Fourth round, championship and $250 (?) for McKeown.

For the past few days the city has been swarming with excursionists. On Friday about 8 o'clock at night 300 arrived on a special from the east. At the dock, a few minutes before the Princess Louise sailed, Mayor McLean addressed the large concourse, welcoming them to the Pacific coast. He advised as many as possible to remain in Vancouver, where they would find ample accommodation for the night and an opportunity in the following forenoon for beholding the progress the city had made, which was of more than ordinary interest, as well as the beautiful natural scenery surrounding the city, seeing many old friends and making new acquaintances. He had ascertained that every berth on the steamer had already been taken, precluding them from getting accommodation for the night. Crossing the gulf under such circumstances would be very unpleasant, especially so if a heavy sea prevailed. A considerable number acted on His Worship's advice. These left for Victoria on Saturday, but their places were taken by other arrivals. The hotels were crowded, but all were provided for. The visitors appeared to enjoy themselves thoroughly, and so they should for they were handsomely entertained by the Vancouverites. The city was not exactly painted red, but there were many hilarious spirits to be seen during the early morning hours and throughout the day. The Burrard Inlet waters were too much for the prairie and mountain boys, who have been accustomed to a prohibitive liquor act. The peace was well observed, not a solitary breach having taken place.

The following from the Herald is pretty good, and about the true state of affairs here:

Vancouver man—I suppose you've never been in Vancouver, have you?

Eastern man—In the Terminal City? Yes, was there last week.

V. M.—Last week! Oh, but you ought to see it now!

A game of chess will be played on Friday night next in Vancouver by the Vancouver and New Westminster teams.

The Ideal Concert Co. give an entertainment in the Methodist Hall to-morrow night (Monday.)

Capt. Chenault, late manager of the Leland House, leaves for San Francisco this week. His many friends wish him health, wealth and prosperity in his future career.

On Friday night last some 80 persons were unable to secure accommodation at the Leland, so large was the crowd at this popular hotel. The Victoria proprietor and his New Westminster manager seem to be popular fellows.

POLICE COURT.

(Before R. M. Johnson, Q. C. S. M.)

Annie, a West Coast Indian, drunk. Fined $10 or one month.

Clement J. Sauer, on remand, for carrying a loaded weapon.

Mr. Theo. Davie, Q. C., appeared for the defendant. No witnesses were called for the defence.

Supt. Bloomfield informed His Honor that Mr. Sauer was in business and had hitherto borne a good character.

His Honor said he had listened carefully to the remarks made by the Council for the defense and had taken into consideration the defendant's former good character; in order to vindicate the law he would fine defendant $50 and forfeit the pistol. The practice of carrying loaded firearms would not be allowed in this community, and His Honor hoped the fine imposed would be a warning to others. The fine was paid.

Peter, an Indian, charged with being in possession of an intoxicant was fined $25, and for being drunk fined $10, in default imprisonment for one month.

Johnny, an Indian, drunk; fined $5 or one week.

Terry Henrick, charged with being drunk and disorderly. Fined $5 or one week.

James Carey, an Indian, drunk, fined $5 or one week.

Alfred Smith, a white man, charged with being drunk and disorderly, fined $5 or one week.

Jennie Mitchell and Bertha King, on remand, charged with being inmates of a house of ill-fame.

Mr. McNab Stuart appeared on behalf of the defendants and pleaded guilty.

His Honor said the inmates may not be so much to blame as the keepers of the house; circumstances might have made them lead such a life. They were advised by the Court to mend their ways, and as Mr. Stuart said they did not intend to remain in the city, a nominal penalty would be imposed. The women were fined $10 each.

John Costello, a Mexican, charged with supplying intoxicants to an Indian woman; fined $50 and costs or three month's imprisonment with hard labor.

Jennie, an Indian woman, charged with being in possession of an intoxicant; fined $25; the fine was paid.

Tom, an Indian, charged with being in possession of an intoxicant; fined $50 and costs or imprisonment for two months with hard labor.

Sally, an Indian woman, charged with being in possession of an intoxicant. Discharged.

Robert Barnard, an Indian, charged with being in possession of an intoxicant; fined $5 or one week.

Ging, a Chinaman, charged with being a vagrant. Sentenced to imprisonment for one month.

Johnnie, charged with being in possession of whiskey. The Indian acknowledged having the bottle, and pointed out a Chinaman in the audience who had supplied him the liquor. The Chinaman was taken in charge, and in less than one minute all the Chinese hurriedly left the room. The arrested Chinaman was dismissed. The Indian Johnnie was fined $25 or imprisonment for one month.

Ah Lung, charged with supplying intoxicants to Indians. Fined $50 and costs or two month's imprisonment.

Mary Ann, an Indian, charged with being in possession of an intoxicant. Charge withdrawn.

The charge against Edward Hodge was remanded until to-morrow. No further evidence was taken to-day in this case.

Phillip Chalk, charged with being a vagrant; three months imprisonment.

TO-DAY'S DISPATCHES.

Horrible Murder at a Church Door---Chinese Bank.

League Meeting at Midnight---Princess of Wales Sick.

BALFOUR IN IRELAND.

DUBLIN, Oct. 17.—A. J. Balfour, Chief Secretary for Ireland, arrived here to-day accompanied by two detectives.

MEETING TO TAKE PLACE.

BERLIN, Oct. 17.—Rumors are revived of a meeting between Emperor William and the Czar, and it is alleged that it will take place in Pomerinea within a fortnight.

POSTAL FRAUDS.

BARCELONA, Oct. 17.—Forty persons have been arrested here charged with extensive frauds upon the postal department. Some prominent officials are implicated.

LEAGUE MEETING AT MIDNIGHT.

DUBLIN, Oct. 17.—Messrs. O'Brien and Thomas P. Gill, assisted by other National leaders, successfully conducted an immense meeting at Woodford last night in spite of the fact that the meeting had been proclaimed. The meeting was called to order at midnight and was undisturbed to the end. The promoters of the affair took the precaution to cut the telegraph wires, thus preventing communication with Dublin, and the police were not aware of the meeting until after it adjourned.

LONDON, Oct. 17.—The Daily News, congratulates the Nationalists upon "Their Capital Stroke" in successfully holding a meeting at Woodford.

THE PRINCESSES OF WALES.

LONDON, Oct. 17.—Great anxiety prevails in court circles over the condition of the Princesses Louise and Maude of Wales, who are ill with the measles in Copenhagen. The ages of the princesses are respectively 20 and 18, and the dangerous character of the disease is therefore enhanced.

DEMAND ON BULGARIA.

The increased irritation of Russia over the state of affairs in Bulgaria, together with the inactivity of the Porte, renders it extremely likely that the Czar's Government will make a positive demand on Bulgaria with reference to the status of that principality almost immediately. In semi-official circles there is a conviction that something of this kind will occur during the week.

ANARCHISTS IN PARIS.

PARIS, Oct. 17.—An Anarchist meeting held to-night at Menilmenhaut, on the outskirts of Paris, at which Louise Michel, a prominent woman Anarchist, was present. The police made an attempt to break up the meeting and a general affray was the result, in which many were wounded. The gendarmes used batons and revolvers freely. Several arrests have been made.

THE CHINA BANK.

LONDON, Oct. 17.—The Standard's Shanghai despatch say that further delays have transpired concerning the American syndicate matter. It is stated that Count Mitkiewitz, in obtaining the concession, used Mr. Vanderbilt's name, which actually became incorporated in an agreement signed by "Hung Chang." Mr. Vanderbilt was warned but not in time to prevent the occurrence. Mitkiewitz then used the names of Mr. Gould and Mr. Mackay, but upon Mr. Gould's son denying any connection with Mitkiewitz, he engaged Barker Bros., of London, who after consulting the large London banking firms pronounced the scheme untenable. It is learned moreover that whatever railways, etc., should be undertaken with the money raised in America, were to be mortgaged to the syndicate.

AMERICAN NEWS.

STORY DENIED.

NASHVILLE, Oct. 17.—The story telegraphed the Chicago News about an attempt being made to wreck the President's train in Arkansas by the burning of the trestle is totally denied by all the correspondents who have been with the party. Nothing of the sort occurred is what they all say.

A ROBBER CAUGHT.

WACO, Tex., Oct. 17.—On the night of September 29th a single robber stopped and rifled two stages filled with passengers on the road between Ballinger and San Angela. John A. Newcombe, (alias Smith) was suspected of being the robber, and was yesterday brought here in custody of a Deputy U. S. Marshal and arraigned before Commissioner Finch, on a charge of robbing the mail. He was held in $2500 bail.

FOR THE POPE.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—A circular from Archbishop Corrigan was read in all the Catholic churches in this city yesterday, calling upon all pastors to urge their congregations to contribute freely to collections to be taken up on the last Sunday in October to be presented to the Pope on the occasion of his jubilee, and reminding Catholics of their duty to obey the Holy Father not only in purely religious matters, but also in matters of discipline connected with the church.

THE CAFFAREL SCANDAL.

PARIS, Oct. 17.—Gen. Boulanger accepts the punishment imposed upon him by the order of Gen. Ferron, Minister of War, and acknowledges that his language to the reporters about the Caffarel affair was indiscreet. Gen. Ferron, Minister of War, says that the inquiry into the matter of the sale of civic decorations is nearly completed, and that no officer of the army, nor any employee of the War Department, has been found to be involved in the affair excepting Gen. Caffarel and Gen. DeAndlau. Henri Rochefort, in his paper, Le Intransigeint, charges that M. Wilson, the President's son-in-law, received a hundred thousand francs for his influence in securing a decoration for one person. Mr. Wilson denies the statement published in the Intransigeint. He intends to prosecute M. Rochefort for calumny.

MURDERED AT THE CHURCH DOOR.

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—Stephen W. Rawson, a well-known banker and connected with the Union Brush Company, was probably fatally shot at noon to-day near the Third Presbyterian Church, at the corner of Ashland and Ogden avennes by his stepson, Ralph W. Slaymaker. The shooting occasioned great excitement, and occurred as the worshippers at the church were proceeding to their homes. Mr. Rawson emerged from the south entrance of the church and started diagonally across Ogden avenue, on his way to his residence. Slaymaker, who had been waiting for nearly an hour when he saw Rawson come, ran until within eight feet of the banker and then drew a large revolver and fired into the back of the helpless man, who fell forward upon his hands and knees, but before he struck the earth another bullet was lodged in his body. The young assassin did not advance as he fired, but stood pale and trembling in the gutter. When the aged victim fell Slaymaker turned the revolver down upon the prostrate body and fired three times in succession. For a moment the throng of people coming from the church was paralyzed by the spectacle; then a panic ensued among the women and children, who fled in wild disorder. Slaymaker started across the avenue with the weapon still in his hand. A man leaped out of the crowd and seized the assassian, who was shortly afterwards turned over to the police. "Take me to jail as quickly as possible," he said to the officer; "I have done my business, now you do yours." He stated that the shooting comes from domestic troubles. Mr. Rawson recently applied for a divorce from his wife, A. L. Lee, who had previously been married twice. The stepson, Ralph W. Slaymaker, or William R. Lee, as he was sometimes called, took his mother's part and was greatly indignant at certain charges made by Mr. Rawson against her.

ARRIVED.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Chas. Dickens, jr., arrived to-day on the Auracia. Campanini, the tenor, was a passenger on the Champagne.

OPIUM SMUGGLER.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 14.—James Hackett, who was convicted of smuggling 226 five-tael boxes of prepared opium, and forty pounds of the crude stuff, was today sentenced to two years' hard labor in San Quentin prison, and to pay a fine of $1000 in default of payment of which, he will be obliged to remain a corresponding number of days in prison, after the expiration of his term. This is the severest sentence that has ever been passed in this city upon anyone convicted of smuggling.

BALANCE OF TRADE.

OTTAWA, Oct. 14.—The Dominion Government, despite protestations that it never would happen again, find themselves confronted with a balance of trade of $23,376,000 against them, as shown by trade statistics of imports and exports just published by the government for the fiscal year ending June 30th. The total amount of customs duties collected upon goods imported into the Dominion during the year was $22,469,706, an increase of $3,021,582 over the figures for the preceding year, total imports being $112,892,236. The average rate of duty levied upon imports dutiable and free, was 20 per cent., compared with 18 per cent. in 1886, and 13¾ per cent. in 1878. Exports have increased from $85,250,000 to $89,500,000. The increase in imports, largely made up on goods entered from the United States was 8 per cent., while exports only increased 5 per cent.

Catarrah, Catarrahal Deafness and Hay Fever.

Sufferers are not generally aware that these diseases are contagious, or that they are due to the presence of living parasites in the lining membrane of the nose and eustachian tubes. Microscopic research, however, has proved this to be a fact, and the result is that a simple remedy has been formulated whereby catarrh, catarrhal deafness and hay fever is cured in from one to three simple applications made at home. A pamphlet explaining this new treatment is sent free on receipt of stamp, by A. H. Dixon & Son, 305 King street West, Toronto, Canada.—Christian Standard.

Death on the Rail.

The mangled remains of Thos. Leighton, of Nanaimo, were discovered at an early hour this morning by the South-bound train on the Mill stream trestle in that city. They were cut completely in two and presented a ghastly appearance. It is supposed that he was killed by the up-bound No. 4 train on Sunday night, which passes that point at 6:15 o'clock. The evening being a dark one no object could be seen. The conclusion arrived at in Nanaimo is that the deceased had lain down on the track to rest and had fallen asleep and whilst in that position the train came thundering along running over him, completely severing his body in two. His death must have been instantaneous. He was in his 45th year, and said to be married and the father of a family. He was employed by Messrs. R. Dunsmuir & Sons. Deceased always conducted himself properly and orderly, and was respected and esteemed by his associates, who sincerely regret his sad and untimely end.

Church at Chemainus.

The Bishop of Columbia visited Chemainus on Monday, September 26th, and was met at the station by Mr. H. Croft, M. P. P. The Bishop's visit was with reference to the appointment of a clergyman for the Mission district of Chemainus and Salt Spring. The clergyman will be the Rev. H. Kingham, who will reside at Chemainus, and give services on alternate Sundays on Salt Spring Island. He will have charge of Chemainus, Cranberry and Cedar Districts as well as Salt Spring and various adjacent Islands. This will be an extensive and interesting mission. Messrs. Croft and Angus have generously given six town lots in an eligible position for church and parsonage. The bishop also visited some of the families and found a strong desire for a resident clergyman.

PERSONAL AND POLITICAL.

Mr. Goschen's jubilee sixpences are selling freely in London at 2s. 3d. In shop windows where these coins are exposed for sale a gilded sixpence and a half-sovereign are exhibited on the same card, with the question "Which is which?" superadded.

It is generally felt in Liberal circles in London that Mr. Bright, in his letter just published, might very well have expressed a rather less guarded sympathy for Mr. Burt and a more friendly attitude towards the general policy of returning workingmen members to Parliament.

Mr. Robert McIntyre, formerly of Renfrew village, and who for some years represented Renfrew county in the House of Commons of old Canada, died in Edinburgh, Scotland, on the 21st ult. He was seventy-four years old. Mr. McIntyre was much respected by those who knew him and his home in Edinburgh was characterized by the hospitality which was so generally extended to his Canadian friends. He was a cousin of Mr. Duncan McIntyre, of the C. P. R. syndicate.

The news from Ireland is being anxiously watched by politicians of all shades of opinion. The area of disturbance is evidently extending, and the struggle between the forces of the Government and the supporters of the League has to all appearance commenced in earnest almost a month earlier than had been expected. Timid folk are calling upon Mr. Parnell to follow the example of Archbishop Walsh, and make a public appeal to the Irish people to refrain from crime. But Mr. Parnell's abiding place is still a mystery, and, as we believe, unknown—even to most of his Parliamentary colleagues.

The grim story of the manufacturers who covered card cases with the skin of the convict Pranzini recalls the case of Governor Hazelrigge, who was Edward the First's lieutenant in Scotland during the uprising in which Wallace played so heroic a part. Hazelrigge, according to traditional statements, was murdered by the people over whom he exercised a tyrannous rule, and to mark their extreme sense of his brutalities, they used his skin to cover saddles. They seem to have derived a kind of satisfaction from riding on a portion of the anatomy of their tormentor, and all things considered, they were more justified in their conduct than the Parisians, who have turned an adventurous thief into a pocket curiosity.

Hon. John Robson, in conversation with a Mail correspondent, said it was expected that the question of the Federal or Provincial authorities to jurisdiction in regard to the minerals in the forty mile railway belt in British Columbia would be settled shortly. A friendly suit had been agreed upon in order to arrive at a decision, and judgment was expected in a few days. The question had lost a good deal of its importance to the people of the Pacific Province since the Dominion mining regulations had been approximated to those issued by the Provincial Government. Neither Government would derive any revenue to speak of from the mineral lands, and the result would be the same whichever Government administered them, provided they were properly administered.

The pretty story of Mr. Gladstone taking tea with an old cottager, near Hawarden, reminds one of a feature in his character with which every friend of the great man and every habitue of the House of Commons is perfectly familiar. Mr. Gladstone's personal courtesy is inseparable from him. Raise your hat to him ever so slightly and you are honored with the deepest and most ceremonious of bows; write to him on any subject that interests you or him, and you will get a courteous reply; offer him the smallest courtesy, and as every policeman in the House of Commons knows, there will be a smile and a word of thanks. All this comes naturally to Mr. Gladstone, as rudeness comes to Mr. Balfour. It is simply a part of the man, and of his training and surroundings.

Next session a bill will be introduced into Parliament by the Government, embodying certain recommendations which are being drawn up by the Board of Works and the department of the Lord Chamberlain. One of these recommendations will be that the lessee should provide at his own expense a fire-brigade, which shall take charge of the exits and of the stage. Another recommendation, if adopted, will provide for the construction of a reservoir over the stage, with appliances for throwing an effective shower of water upon the "flies" and scenery. A third will set out a despotic code of rules, with regard to exits and staircases. No doubt by the time this bill comes before Parliament the theatrical interest, emancipated from its panic of to-day, will be prepared to give to the measure all the opposition which it would have given had there been no given precedent for rigorous statutory precautions. The bill will extend to the United Kingdom.

THE MEMBER FOR COMOX.

On Saturday evening Mr. A. MAITLAND STENHOUSE, M. P. P. for Comox, resigned his seat in the Legislature by forwarding to Mr. Speaker POOLEY a notification to that effect. This step, which has been taken after mature consideration and for several reasons, will surprise his constituents as well as his many friends in this city, only a few of whom had received an intimation of his intention to resign. Mr. STENHOUSE is unfortunately afflicted with deafness, which interfered with the discharge of the duties of a representative. He is keenly sensitive to his failing in this respect, and fully conscious of the impropriety of longer continuing in a position which he is eminently qualified to adorn but for this one misfortune. This is his first and insuperable difficulty. A second, which weighs almost as heavily with a man who aims at following his conscientious convictions on great moral and social questions, is a new-found revelation from the Book of Mormon, especially in respect to polygamy and the minimizing effect which a plurality of wives has on some of the evils that afflict society. "He recognizes the forces of a normal process of evolution which he calls Higher Naturism," and feels that his ideal can only be attained within the church that sanctions as many wives as a man has the ability to support. His past life of single blessedness would seem to be in contradiction of his new creed, but we have reason to believe that circumstances have not hitherto been favorable for the enunciation of his principles or the practise of the doctrine which he has now, according to common report, completely embraced. Mr. STENHOUSE has resigned from the Union Club and has authorized the sale of his property in Comox, with a view to removing to Salt Lake City. We sincerely regret Mr. STENHOUSE's decision. He is a gentleman of scholarly attainments and considerable wealth; and but for the defect in his hearing would undoubtedly make his mark as a politician. We regret it, however, still more for the second cause assigned, believing that a good man has gone somewhat astray, and feeling assured that after a fair trial of polygamy he will exclaim with SOLOMON, "all is vanity and vexation of spirit."

It is currently reported that Hon. T. B. HUMPHREYS will offer himself as a candidate for the vacant seat, but we have no authority other than street rumor to mention his name in that connection. An election will be held as soon as possible, although the absence of the Premier may delay the issue of the writ for some time.

LONDON'S WORKING CLASSES.

Late London cablegrams indicate that the condition of the working classes in the British metropolis is in anything but a satisfactory state. The demonstrations which have been held in Trafalgar and other squares, where the populace demanded either work or bread portend a deplorable state of affairs for the incoming winter. Bread, the staff of life, these people must have. The authorities full well comprehend the meaning of these demonstrations and the trouble lurking behind the gaze of the public which prompts London's artizans parading in public and making their wants known to the world. A report has recently been issued by the local government board on the condition of the working classes in London. It is entitled "Tabulation of the Statements made by men living in selected districts in London in March, 1887." It is compiled by Mr. W. Ogle, Supt. of Statistics at the General Register Office. In the introductory pages Mr. Ogle warns readers against too implicit an acceptance of the information given by the working classes, pointing out that there are obvious exaggerations and discrepancies. The table gives information concerning 29,451 men, engaged in thirty five occupations, and representing the condition of a total population of 125,313, including women and children. Of the 29,451 men, 95 per cent. were born in the United Kingdom. There are only two groups in which the foreigners outnumber the natives—namely, the tailors and the sugar-bakers—and only four more in which their proportion is more than 9 per cent. of the whole. Of the men in work 59 per cent. occupied three or more rooms, 21 per cent. occupied two rooms, 17 per cent. occupied a single room, while 3 per cent. shared a room with others. The groups with the neatiest lodgment were the dock laborers and the costermongers, of whom 50 and 46 per cent. respectively had either a single room or only a part of a room. The best housed were the policemen. Of the 29,451 men, 73 per cent. were in work at the date of the inquiry, while 27 per cent. were unemployed. There was not much difference in this respect between the natives and the foreigners. Of the 29,451 men included in the returns, 15,505, or 53 per cent., stated that they had been out of work at some time in the period between October, 1886, and the date of the inquiry in March, 1887. The proportion varied very greatly in the different groups. Of the dock laborers no less than 89 per cent. stated that they had been without employment, of the masons and bricklayers 79 per cent., and of the painters and glaziers 72 per cent. The average weekly rent and the average weekly earnings of all the men included in the 35 groups and in work at the time of the inquiry were, so far as the tables admit of precise calculation, 6s. 2d. and 24s. 7d. respectively, the proportion of rent to wages being, therefore, almost exactly one to four. It is probable, however, that the rent has been often overstated, and the earnings still more often understated. There are five groups in which the average weekly earnings, as returned, are above 30s., namely, the engine and machine makers, the masons and bricklayers, the carpenters and joiners, the wheelwrights and the shipwrights. After these come in succession printers and bookbinders, blacksmiths, clerks, policemen, watchmakers, &c., engine drivers, &c., painters and glaziers, whose stated wages average under 30s., but over 28s. Then come coopers, shopmen, bakers, butchers, railway servants, seamen and watermen, postmen, &c., with wages under 28s., but over 25s. Then follow, with wages under 25s., but over 20s., artisans not included in other groups, while at the bottom of the list, with earnings of 17s. and under, come dock laborers and costermongers. If the returns are correct, only 14 per cent. of those out of work received any kind of assistance, 6.3 per cent. being relieved by parish or union, 1.6 per cent. relieved by club or friendly society, and 3.2 per cent. relieved by charity.

STIGGINS ON CHADBAND.

Slashing Criticism on Dr. Parker's Eulogy of Beecher.

LONDON, Oct. 12.—In its last issue the Saturday Review falls foul of Rev. Dr. Parker for his eulogy in Brooklyn on the Rev. Henry Ward Beecher. It heads the article, "Stiggins on Chadband," and thus commences:—

The late Henry Ward Beecher was not an ordinary man, and Dr. Joseph Parker, who beats the drum ecclesiastic in the city temple, is a very extraordinary man. When Dr. Pusey published his book on the Prophet Daniel, a flippant critic irreverently observed that he would much rather have had Daniel's opinion of Dr. Pusey; but Mr. Beecher on Dr. Parker would have been rather more or less interesting than Dr. Parker on Mr. Beecher. They were born to eulogize each other, and it is a mere accident of mortality which allowed Dr. Parker to do for his friend what his friend would no doubt much rather have done for him. There is, indeed, a breezy cheerfulness in the good doctor's tone, and an exuberant determination to dispense with the trapping of woe, which irresistibly suggests the meek resignation of the surviving wife in Mr. Swinburn's parody on Lord Tennyson's "Despair." "I'll allow," says that good woman, when the stomach pump has proved too strong for the poison. "I'll allow this thing might have been worse, for he might have been the survivor and following my hearse." But if Dr. Parker is jocular he is also pugnacious. He admits for the sake of argument that there may be men of superior genius to himself. If such imaginary beings really existed—and the speculative possibility of their existence Dr. Parker modestly refrains from denying—they would necessarily be better qualified for the great task of burning incense on the shrine of Mr. Beecher. Warming to his subject, the worthy doctor congratulated himself on the special advantage he possesses in knowing very little about Mr. Beecher. "Criticism," he says, "that is attempted by admiring memory is not bound by the vulgarity of the naked eye." The vulgarity of the naked eye is a phrase on which Dr. Parker may well be content to rest his oratorical reputation for the remainder of his life. He will never beat it, and Mr. Micawber himself might have been proud of it. Such mere common-place nonsense as that "every morning Europe awakens to renew its disappointment that there is not a revolution in America," might attract notice if uttered by another man. In the roaring cataract of Dr. Parker's bottomless rhetoric such foam on the surface is hardly noticed. But Dr. Parker at last grows distrustful even of his own eloquence and calls upon the painter for aid. "Paint him in conversation; catch, above all things the smile, painter. Let me charge thee, seize that spirit smile." Dr. Parker is not troubled by the difficulty of "Alice in Wonderland," who could not imagine the grin without the cat. Truly there was but one Beecher, and Dr. Parker is his prophet.

The article thus concludes: Dr. Parker proves his own qualification for his business in many a sentence which Mr. Beecher himself could not have surpassed, and from which the combined wit of all the candidates in a civil service examination could not extract the smallest particle of meaning. We can assure the reverend eulogist that we shall not attempt to dispute the proud position which he claims, that of chief trumpeter to a departed charlatan. We had something to say about Mr. Beecher last spring, and need not repeat it now; but Dr. Parker has unconsciously portrayed himself in this lecture, and the result combines amusement with instruction.

PROF. SAUNDERS

Is Much Surprised With the Extent of Arable Land in B. C.

Prof. Saunders, Superintendent of the Government Experimental Farm near Ottawa, who paid a flying visit to British Columbia a couple of weeks since, arrived in Winnipeg last week. To a press representative he stated that the object of his visit to the Northwest and British Columbia was to collect such information as might assist the Federal Government in the selecting of sites for the proposed experimental farms which have been provided for by Parliament. The Professor visited several of the most desirable places in the Pacific Province, and he stated to a Call reporter that the extent of arable land he found there much surprised him. He is of the opinion that the delta and table lands adjacent to the Fraser river are capable of being brought under a high state of cultivation, though he thinks the country is principally adapted to fruit growing. A good deal of the fruit grown there at present has been allowed to deteriorate; but the professor found on some farms fine specimens of pears, apples and plums. New stock is, however, being introduced, and an improvement will now steadily be made, as the growers recognize the importance of cultivating nothing but first class marketable fruits. The professor also saw several fine flocks of sheep and many herds of cattle, which were in first-rate condition but did not appear to be well-bred.

What Am I To Do.

The symptoms of Biliousness are unhappily too well known. They differ in different individuals to some extent. A Bilious man is seldom a breakfast eater. Too frequently, alas, he has an excellent appetite for liquids but none for solids of a morning. His tongue will hardly bear inspection at any time; if it is not white and furred, it is rough, at all events.

The digestive system is wholly out of order and Diarrhoea or Constipation may be a symptom or the two may alternate. There are often Hemorrhoids or even loss of blood. There may be giddiness and often headache and acidity or flatulence and tenderness in the pit of the stomach. To correct all this if not effect a cure try Green's August Flower, it costs but a trifle and thousands attest its efficacy. *

Day and Night

During an acute attack of Bronchitis, a ceaseless tickling in the throat, and an exhausting, hacking cough, afflict the sufferer. Sleep is banished, and great prostration follows. This disease is also attended with Hoarseness, and sometimes Loss of Voice. It is liable to become chronic, involve the lungs, and terminate fatally. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral affords speedy relief and cure in cases of Bronchitis. It controls the disposition to cough, and induces refreshing sleep.

I have been a practising physician for twenty-four years, and, for the past twelve, have suffered from annual attacks of Bronchitis. After exhausting all the usual remedies

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is decidedly the best remedy, within my knowledge, for chronic Bronchitis, and all lung diseases. —M. A. Rust, M. D., South Paris, Me.

I was attacked, last winter, with a severe Cold, which grew worse and settled on my Lungs. By night sweats I was reduced almost to a skeleton. My Cough was incessant, and I frequently spit blood. My physician told me to give up business, or I would not live a month. After taking various remedies without relief, I was finally two bottles of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. I am now in perfect health, and able to resume business, after having been pronounced incurable with Consumption.—S. P. Henderson, Sunbsburgh, Penn.

For years I was in a decline. I had a cough, lungs, and suffered from Bronchitis and Catarrh. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral restored me to health, and I have been for a long time comparatively vigorous. In case of a sudden cold I always resort to the Pectoral, and find speedy relief.—Edward E. Curtis, Rutland, Vt.

Two years ago I suffered from a severe Bronchitis. The physician attending me became fearful that the disease would terminate in Pneumonia. After trying various medicines, without benefit, he prescribed Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, which relieved me at once. I continued to take this medicine, and was cured. —Ernest Colton, Logansport, Ind. ††

CHAPTER XXIII.

I HAVE SPOKEN.

It was a week after Nyleptha's visit, when I had begun to get about a little in the middle of the day, that a message came to me from Sir Henry to say that Sorais would be brought before them in the queen's first antechamber at midday, and requested my attendance if possible. Accordingly greatly drawn by curiosity to see this unhappy woman once more, I made shift, with the help of that kind little fellow Alphonse, who is a perfect treasure to me, and that of another wasting man, to reach the antechamber. I ventured indeed, before anybody else, except a few of the great court officials who had been bidden to be present, but I had scarcely seated myself before Sorais was brought in by a party of guards, looking as beautiful and defiant as ever, but with a worn expression on her proud face. She was, as usual, dressed in her royal kar emblazoned with the emblem of the Sun, and in her right hand she still held the toy spear of silver. A pang of admiration and pity went through me as I looked at her and struggling to my feet I bowed deeply, at the same time expressing my sorrow that I was not able owing to my condition, to remain standing before her.

She stared a little and then laughed bitterly. "Thou dost forget, Macumazahn," she said, "I am no more a queen, save in blood. I am an outcast and a prisoner, one whom all men should scorn, and none show deference to."

"At least," I replied, "thou art still a lady and therefore one to whom deference is due. Also thou art in an evil case, and therefore it is doubly due."

"Ah!" she answered, with a little laugh, "thou dost forget that I would have wrapped thee in a sheet of gold and hung thee to the angel's trumpet at the topmost pinnacle of the temple."

"No," I answered, "I assure thee I forgot it not; indeed I often thought of it when it seemed to me that the battle of the Pass was turning against us, but the trumpet is there, and I am still here, though perchance not for long, so why talk of it now?"

"Ah!" she went on, "the battle! the battle! Oh, would that I were once more a queen, if only for one little hour, and I would take such a vengeance on those accursed jackals who deserted me in my need, that it should only be spoken of in whispers, those women, those pigeon hearted half breeds who suffered themselves to be overcome," and she choked in her wrath.

"Ay, and that little coward beside thee," she went on, pointing at Alphonse with the silver spear, whereat he looked very uncomfortable, "he escaped and betrayed my plans. I tried to make a general of him, telling the soldiers it was Bougwan, and to scourge valor into him" (here Alphonse shivered at some unhappy recollection), "but it was of no avail. He hid beneath a tenner in my tent and thus overheard all my plans. I would that I had slain him, but, alas! I held my hand. And thou, Macumazahn, I have heard of what thou didst, thou art a brave man and hast a loyal heart. And the black one, too, ah, he was a man. I fain would have seen him hurl Nasta from the stairway."

"Thou art a strange woman, Sorais," I said. "I pray thee now plead with the Queen Nyleptha, that perchance she may show mercy unto thee."

She laughed out loud. "I plead for mercy!" she said, and at that moment the queen entered, accompanied by Sir Henry and Good, and took her seat with an impassive face. As for poor Good, he looked intensely ill at ease.

"Greeting, Sorais!" said Nyleptha, after a short pause. "Thou hast rent the kingdom like a rag, thou hast left thousands of my people to the sword, thou hast twice basely plotted to destroy my life by murder, thou hast sworn to slay my lord and his companions and to hurl me from the stairway. What hast thou to say why thou shouldst not die? Speak, O Sorais!"

"Methinks my sister, the queen, hath forgotten the chief count of the indictment," answered Sorais, in her slow musical tones. "It runs thus. 'Thou didst strive to win the love of my lord Incubu.' It is for this crime that my sister will slay me, not because I levied war. It is perhaps happy for thee, Nyleptha, that I fixed my mind upon his love too late.

"Listen," she went on, raising her voice, "I have naught to say save that I would I had won instead of lost. Do thou with me even as thou wilt, O queen, and let my lord the king there" (pointing to Sir Henry), "for now will he be king, carry out the sentence, as it is meet he should, for as he is the beginning of the evil, let him also be the end," and she drew herself up and shot one angry glance at him from her deep fringed eyes, and then began to toy with her spear.

Sir Henry bent toward Nyleptha and whispered something that I could not catch, and then the queen spoke.

"Sorais, ever have I been a good sister to thee. When our father died, and there was much talk in the land as to whether thou shouldst sit upon the throne with me, I being the elder, I gave my voice for thee and said, 'Nay, let her sit. She is twin with me; we were born at a birth; wherefore should the one be preferred before the other?' And so has it ever been 'twixt thee and me, my sister. But now thou knowest in what sort thou hast repaid me; but I have prevailed, and thy life is forfeit, Sorais. And yet art thou my sister, born at a birth with me, and we played together when we were little and loved each other much, and at night we slept in the same cot with our arms each around the other's neck, and therefore even now does my heart go out to thee, Sorais.

"But not for that would I spare thy life, for thy offense has been too heavy; it doth drag down the wide wings of my mercy even to the ground. Also, while thou dost live the land will never be at peace.

"Yet shalt thou not die, Sorais, because my dear lord here hath begged thy life of me as a boon; therefore as a boon and as a marriage gift give I it to him, to do with even as he wills, knowing that, though thou dost love him, he loves thee not, Sorais, for all thy beauty. Nay, though thou art lovely as the night in all her stars, O Lady of the Night, yet is it me his wife whom he loves, and not thee, and therefore do I give thy life to him."

Sorais flushed up to her eyes and said nothing, and I do not think that I ever saw a man look more miserable than did Sir Henry at that moment. Somehow Nyleptha's way of putting the thing, though true and forcible enough, was not altogether pleasant.

"I understood," stammered Curtis, looking at Good—"I understood that you were attached—eh—attached to—to the Queen Sorais. I am—eh—not aware what the—in short, the state of your feelings may be just now; but if they happen to be that way inclined, it has struck me that—in short, it might put a satisfactory end to an unpleasant business. The lady also has ample private estates, where I am sure she would be at liberty to live unmolested so far as we are concerned, eh, Nyleptha? Of course I only suggest."

"So far as I am concerned," said Good, coloring up, "I am quite willing to forget the past; and if the Lady of the Night thinks me worth having I will marry her to-morrow, or when she likes, and try to make her a good husband."

All eyes were now turned to Sorais, who stood with that same slow smile upon her beautiful face that I had noticed the first time that I ever saw her. She paused a little while and cleared her throat, and then thrice she courtesied low, once to Nyleptha, once to Curtis and once to Good, and began to speak in measured tones.

"I thank thee, most gracious queen and sister, for the loving kindness thou hast shown me from my youth up, and especially in that thou has been pleased to give my person and my fate as a gift to the Lord Incubu—the king that is to be. May prosperity, peace and plenty deck the life path of one so merciful and so tender even as flowers do. Long mayest thou reign, O great and glorious queen, and hold thy husband's love in both thy hands, and many be the sons and daughters of thy beauty. And I thank thee my Lord Incubu—the king that is to be—I thank thee a thousand times in that thou hast been pleased to accept that gracious gift, and to pass it on to thy comrade in arms and in adventure, the Lord Bougwan. Surely the act is worthy of thy greatness, my Lord Incubu. And now lastly I thank thee also my Lord Bougwan, who in thy turn hast deigned to accept me and my poor beauty. I thank thee a thousand times, and I will add that thou art a good and honest man, and I put my hand upon my heart and swear that I would that I could say thee 'yea.' And now that I have rendered thanks to all inture"—and again she smiled—"I will add one short word.

"Little can ye understand of me, Nyleptha and my lords, if ye know not that for me there is no middle path that I scorn your pity and hate ye for it; that I cast off your forgiveness as though it were a serpent's sting; and that standing here, betrayed, deserted, insulted and alone, I yet triumph over ye, mock ye and defy ye, one and all, and thus I answer ye," and then of a sudden, before anybody guessed what she intended to do, she drove the little silver spear she carried in her hand into her side with such a strong and steady aim that the keen point projected through her back, and she fell prone upon the pavement.

Nyleptha shrieked, and poor Good almost fainted at the sight, while the rest of us rushed toward her. But Sorais of the Night lifted herself upon her hand and for a moment fixed her glorious eyes intently on Curtis face, as though there were some message in the glance, then dropped her head and sighed, and with a sob her dark yet splendid spirit passed.

Well, they gave her a royal funeral, and there was an end of her.

* * * * * * *

It was a month after the last act of the Sorais tragedy that there was a great ceremony in the Flower Temple, and Curtis was formally declared king consort of Zu-Vendis. I was too ill to go myself, and, indeed, I hate all that sort of thing; with the crowds and the trumpet blowing and banner waving; but Good, who was there (in his full dress uniform), came back much impressed, and told me that Nyleptha had looked lovely, and Curtis had borne himself in a right royal fashion, and had been received with acclamations that left no doubt as to his popularity. Also he told me that when the horse Daylight was led along in the procession, the populace had shouted "Macumazahn, Macumazahn!" till they were hoarse, and would only be appeased when he, Good, rose in his chariot and told them that I was too ill to be present.

Afterwards, too, Sir Henry, or rather the king, came to see me, looking very tired, and vowing that he had never been so bored in his life, but I dare say that that was a slight exaggeration. It is not in human nature that a man should be altogether bored on such an extraordinary occasion, and, indeed, as I pointed out to him, it was a marvelous thing that a man who but little more than one short year before had entered a great country as an unknown wanderer should today be married to its beautiful and beloved queen, and lifted amid public rejoicings to its throne, and I even went the length to exhort him in the future not to be carried away by the pride and pomp of absolute power, but always to strive to remember that he was first a Christian gentleman, and next a public servant, called by Providence to a great and almost unprecedented trust. These remarks, which he might fairly have resented, he was so good as to receive with patience, and even to thank me for making them.

It was immediately after this ceremony that I caused myself to be moved to the house where I am now writing. It is a very pleasant country seat, situated about five miles from the Frowning City, onto which it looks. That was five months ago, during the whole of which time I have, being confined to a kind of cough, employed my leisure in compiling this history of our wanderings from my journal and our joint memories. It is probable that it will never be read, but it does not much matter whether it is or not, at any rate, it has served to while away many hours of suffering, for I have suffered a deal of pain lately. Thank God, however, there will not be much more of it.

* * * * * * *

It is a week since I wrote the above, and now I take up my pen for the last time, for I know that the end is at hand. My brain is still clear and I can manage to write, though with difficulty. The pain in my lung, which has been very bad during the last week, has suddenly quite left me and been succeeded by a feeling of numbness of which I cannot mistake the meaning.

And so this is the end of it—a brief space of troubling, a few restless, fevered, anguished years, and then the arms of that great angel death. Many times have I been near to them, many and many a comrade have they embraced even at my side, and now it is my turn at last, and it is well. Twenty-four hours more and the world will be gone from me, and with it all its hopes and all its fears.

Well, it is not a good world—nobody can say that it is save those who willfully blind themselves to facts. How can a world be good in which money is the moving power and self interest the guiding star? The wonder is not that it is so bad, but that there should be any good left in it.

Still, now that my life is over, I am glad to have lived, glad to have known the dear breath of woman's love, and that true friendship that can even surpass the love of woman; glad to have heard the laughter of little children, to have seen the sun and the moon and the stars, to have felt the kiss of the salt sea on my face, and watch the wild game trek down to the water in the moonlight. But I should not wish to live again!

Everything is changing to me. The darkness draws near, and the light departs. And yet it seems to me that through the darkness I can already see the shining welcome of many a long lost face. Harry is there, and others; one above all, to my mind the sweetest and most perfect woman that ever gladdened this gray earth. But of her I have already written elsewhere, and at length, so why speak of her now? Why speak of her after this long silence, now that she is again so near to me?

The sinking sun is turning the golden roof of the great temple to a fiery flame, and my fingers tire.

So to all who have known me, or who can think one kindly thought of the old hunter, I stretch out my hand from the far off shore and bid a long farewell.

And now into the hands of Almighty God, who sent it, do I commit my spirit.

"I have spoken," as the Zulus say.

HAWES—SHEPPARD.—On the 15th inst., at the residence of J. P. Matthews, James Bay, by the Rev. Mr. Starr, G. E. Hawes, of this city to Miss Bessie Sheppard, of Wiltshire, England.

CITY AND PROVINCE.

—Kurtz's Jubilee Cigars are now ready.

—The Geo. W. Elder had not arrived at 4 p. m.

—Money saved by having your plans made by FISHER, the ARCHITECT *

EASTERN TOWNSHIP'S BUTTER at Neufelder & Ross'. *

—Rev. W. R. Ross, of Carmen, Man., preached with great acceptence in the First Presbyterian Church last night.

—Mens', Youths', and Boys' Rubber Coats at reduced prices, at Jeffrees', Yates St. *

—A fine line of Porpoise hide laced boots direct from London, just arrived at GEO. H. MAYNARD'S. *

—Photographic views along the line of the C. P. R. in B. C., and views of Alaska, for sale at R. MAYNARD'S, Douglas St. *

—Strong, serviceable umbrellas, suitable for school children, 75c each, at Jeffrees', Yates St. *

—Try our new OPERA GAITER and LACE BOOT, made to order at $4 50. *
GEO. H. MAYNARD.

—Boys' ENGLISH LACE BOOTS just arrived; no equal in the province, at GEO. H. MAYNARD'S. *

—The Alvin Joslin Company's Band is a pretty good one, but it would need to be to play as many airs as its drum major puts on.

The only place in the city for a glass of British Beer on draught is the Occidental Hotel. XXX Edinburgh and XXX Burton. WM. JENSEN.

—See the new dress stuff that is selling at the Lansdowne House, Yates street. 8 yards for $1.
JOHN PARTRIDGE, Proprietor.*

—Pendray & Co. have only sent a part of their No. 1 soap east. You can have your orders promptly filled by them on Humboldt street. *

—Families requiring extra quantities of sugar for preserving purposes will find it to their advantage to purchase at FELL & Co's. *

—The people east are good judges of soap, that's just the reason they buy largely of Pendray & Co. We keep a full stock on hand of soap that is soap. You try it. *

—Another shipment of ladies' and children's tweed ulsters, felt and straw hats, new wool goods, black silk umbrellas, hosiery, gloves, etc., etc. Lansdowne House, Yates street.
J. PARTRIDGE, Proprietor.*

—REDUCED PRICES:—Just received over 250 patterns fine mouldings, steel engravings and all latest pictures in stock. Framing and mounting a specialty. JOS. SOMMERS, Government street. *

—The excellent band of the Alvin Joslin Comedy Company discoursed several pieces of sweet music on the Government and Yates street crossing this afternoon. To-night the company play in the Victoria Theatre.

—Mr. Thomas, who has for years acted as cutter for Mr. A. Gilmore, the tailor on Johnson street, has leased premises on Yates street just above the Pritchard House. He cannot be beaten on the coast as an artistic cutter and will doubtless meet with a large share of public patronage.

—Every wife and mother in the country should know the great value of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, as a blood purifier. It gives tone, health, and strength, to the vital organs, corrects all irregularities, and expels impurities from the system. Young and old use it. Price $1. *

—A Winnipeg paper says that Mr. McKinnon, of Kamloops, took his flyers to the race meeting, at Bathgate, Dak., last week, and captured first money in every event in which any of his horses were entered. Mr. McKinnon has returned to the city and will remain here a few days before going west. He had considerable success at the Winnipeg fall meeting, and it will likely be on hand again next spring with fresh blood.

From Surgeon-General Bergin, M. D. M. P., Ottawa, May 21, 1884.—Mr. B. Laurance.—Dear Sir: I cannot let you leave the city without expressing my satisfaction with the spectacles I had from you. I find that I can read the smallest print perfectly and without fatigue to the eye, for an hour or more, which I have not hitherto been able to do since I commenced the use of spectacles. B. BERGIN, M.D.
B. Laurance's spectacles only sold by D. E. Campbell, Fort street. *

Sloop Capsized.

A sloop is reported capsized near Cape Mudge. The Indians were seen towing it into Euclataw on Thursday, but it was not known to whom it belonged. It is feared that the crew, which is believed to have belonged to Victoria, has been lost.

The Fisheries Commission.

The Hon. Mr. Thompson will accompany Sir Charles Tupper to Washington in the capacity of counsel for Canada. Mr. Bergeon, who was Secretary of the Halifax Commission, has been appointed to a similar position on the fisheries commission.

Trotting Race.

On Saturday next Briggs' "Moscow," Rudge's "Frank" and Shaw's "Dart" will trot the best three in five, half mile, for a purse of $100 and the entrance money at the driving park. The start will be made sharp at 2 p. m.

A Popular Steward.

Mr. Burke, who is at present chief Steward of the splendid steamer Premier, was for years steward on the boats plying between this port and Puget Sound. On his return he met with many old acquaintances who were glad to see him, and extended to him a hearty welcome.

New Drug Store.

R. Atwood & Co. have opened their drug store on Government street, next door to Neufelder & Ross, where can be found a full line of drugs, chemicals, toilet articles, patent medicines, etc., etc. Physicians' prescriptions carefully compounded. R. ATWOOD & Co. *

Smoke "Creme de la Creme" Cigars.

Fire Alarm.

The fire alarm at 6:30 last night was caused by sparks igniting the roof of Mrs. Thain's residence at the corner of Fisgard and Blanchard streets. Before the firemen arrived the fire was extinguished. The church bells were ringing at the time, and many firemen did not hear the fire alarm. We would suggest that the bell-ringers in the different churches discontinue ringing for a short time when the alarm of fire is given to allow the firemen an opportunity to hear the fire bells.

Really! The Creme de la Creme.

Hawes-Sheppard.

Last Saturday evening, Mr. G. E. Hawes, agent for the Singer Sewing Machine, was married to Miss Bessie Sheppard, who came from Wiltshire, England, about four months ago. The ceremony was performed at the residence of Mr. J. P. Matthews by the Rev. Mr. Starr, and the happy couple left subsequently for Nanaimo, where they intend to make their future home. THE TIMES wishes them unalloyed happiness throughout life.

Creme de la Creme Cigars; A. B. Gray & Co., Agents.

Important.

The goods damaged by water in consequence of the fire in the Arcade building will be sold at private sale commencing on Tuesday at Spencer's Arcade. Brussels Carpets, Tapestry Carpet, Felt and Hemp Carpet, Rope Matting, Kidderminster and Three-ply Carpets, Hearthrugs, Mats.

Men's and Boys' Hats, Caps, Ties, Gloves, Shirts, Socks, Underwear; also the goods damaged by the smoke. All goods will be marked in plain figures and sold for cash only. *

Gladstone Cigars.

The Inter-Provincial Conference.

To the Toronto Mail's Ottawa correspondent the Hon. John Robson stated that he did not know whether British Columbia would be represented at the forthcoming Inter-Provincial conference. The invitation to send a delegate only reached Victoria two days before he (Mr. Robson) left, and nothing had been decided at the time of his departure. Certainly Premier Davie would not travel east, as he was not in good health, and probably by this time was rusticating in Southern California, where it was his intention to remain for some weeks.

Black and Tan Cigars.

In Kamloops Hospital.

The Sentinel says there are at present eight patients under treatment at the hospital, the majority of whom are under treatment for fever. Mr. F. W. Wood, manager of Mr. Mara's store, is a victim of mountain fever, as are also George J. Smith and A. Thomas, of Ashcroft and G. Wright of Sicamous. D. Wilson of Mission Valley is suffering with rheumatic fever. Two other patients, victims of railway accidents, are also receiving treatment. All are doing well and are on a fair way to recovery. An extra nurse has been engaged during the past week.

Tony Cigars.

Funeral.

The mortal remains of the late Emily Brooks, beloved wife of Mr. W. H. Brooks, were deposited in their last resting place on Sunday afternoon. The cortege left the residence shortly after 1 o'clock and wended its sad way to the Methodist Church, Pandora Stree twhere the Rev. E. Ladner read the service for the dead. The church was filled with sorrowing friends of the deceased, and at the conclusion of the ceremonies the organist, Mr. H. A. Sharpe, played Chopin's Dead March in C minor. After leaving the church, the procession passed along Government Street to Ross Bay Cemetery, where the final sad rites were performed. Members of Far West Lodge, Knights of Pythias, attended the funeral. The following gentlemen were pallbearers: W. Dorman, A. J. Smith, Geo. Faye, T. Shatbolt, J. McB. Smith, and J. R. Milne.

Roller Skating Rink Open Every Day.

Impromptu Concert.

The concert given by the Winnipeg Ideal Company on Saturday night in the rooms of the Y. M. C. A. and in aid of their funds was largely attended, the room being filled to overflowing. The pieces rendered by the company in both vocal and instrumental, were excellent, displaying careful training and cultured voices of great compass. It was one of the most enjoyable events of the season. It is to be hoped a Victoria audience will have another opportunity of listening to these sweet singers. They left behind them a very favorable impression.

Police Court.

"Twenty cases this morning," said the Sergeant of Police in answer to an enquiry made by our reporter. When the door leading from the lock-up was opened a motly crowd filed into the court-room, consisting of two white men, the same number of Chinamen, four Indian women, and seven male Indians. On remand Costello, Saues, Jennie Mitchell, Bertha King and E. Hodge. The Police Magistrate has never had so many cases before him in one day, and he discharged the arduous duties in a manner commensurate with ends of justice.

Change in Officials.

Mr. W. D. Hughes, traveling agent of the passenger department of the Canadian Pacific Railway, to-day assumed control of the Government street office of that company. Mr. George V. Heathcote, who has had charge of the office since it was opened, as well as being the freight contracting agent of the line for the last year has been appointed freight clerk on board the Premier, which yesterday went over to Vancouver, where she is to take the place of the Eliza Anderson on the Vancouver-Puget Sound route. She will make her first trip tomorrow (Tuesday). A large quantity of freight awaits transhipment at Vancouver. The Anderson was disabled last Saturday and will not be in a position to carry either freight or passengers for some time. Mr. Heathcote's many friends in Victoria are pleased to note the promotion he has received, for the discharge of the duties of which he is eminently qualified. George will become as great a favorite on the Sound route as he was in Victoria. Mr. Hughes' appointment is but temporary, pending the arrival of the permanent official.

The L'Aubiniere Exhibition.

The private view of the above art exhibition, held on Saturday afternoon, was a very succesful event, socially and artistically. A large number of the friends and pupils of the two popular artists assembled at the hall above Waitt's Music Store, and spent a couple of hours most agreeably in examining the numerous beautiful pictures and sketches which cover the walls. "Afternoon tea" and conversation pleasantly varied the proceedings, and Mr. and Madame de L'Aubiniere's guests took their leave about 5 o'clock, expressing their delight at the charming and novel entertainment provided for them. Among the visitors were Mrs and the Misses Crease, Mrs and Miss Richards, Mrs Jackson, Mr and Mrs Dennis Harris, Mrs Rithet, Mrs Harvey, Miss Davy, Miss Freer, Miss Drake, Dr and Mrs McNaughton-Jones and Miss Jones, Mr and the Misses Langley, Miss Berry, Mrs P Bullen, the Misses Carr, Mr and Mrs W Pindar, Mrs Hamlyn and Miss Mackay, the Misses Finlayson, Miss E Woods, Mr A Pemberton, Miss Pemberton and W C Pemberton, the Hon J H and Mrs Turner, Mr and Mrs Neufelder, Mrs J D Pemberton and the Misses Pemberton, Mr and Mrs W Gore, Sir Matthew Begbie, Sir William Wiseman, Captain Halifax, Captain Rose, W G Matthews, Captain Vidler, Mr E Marvin, and several others.

Orange Blossoms.

On the 12th instant, at 8 o'clock a. m. the bell in the tower of St. Thomas Church, Centreville, was rung, and a large number of the residents of this valley witnessed the marriage ceremony of Miss Susie Cawley, of Chilliwhack, to Mr. R. A. Campbell, of the same place. The ceremony was performed by Archdeacon Woods, of New Westminster. Miss Bertha Reese, Miss Sarah Peers and Miss Mary Turner acted as bridesmaids, and Mr. Norman Cameron, of Ferneycombe, as best man. The handsome bride wore a beautiful dress of nun's veiling and cream silk, with a wreath of orange blossoms on her head. The bridesmaids were also elegantly dressed. The bride's presents were numerous and costly. After the marriage ceremony the newly married couple and guests repaired to the residence of Samuel Cawley, Esq., father of the bride, where the wedding breakfast, consisting of all the delicacies of the season, was prepared. After all had partaken of a hearty breakfast, the happy pair, followed by the wedding party, spent a short time in amusement at Henderson's Hall, and then left amid a shower of rice and old slippers for the Hot Springs. From there they expect to continue their wedding tour by visiting Vancouver and Victoria. They have the hearty congratulations of all who know them, and we hope that they have set an example for a large number of marriageable young ladies and lonely bachelors of this place to follow.
Chilliwhack, Oct. 14th.

The Hastings Saw Mill Co.

Reference was made in these columns a few weeks since to the re-organization in progress of the Hastings Saw Mill Company, limited. The concern is now completed and registered under the general corporation act. The capital of the company is placed at $150,000 in 30,000 shares of $5 each. The following parties have subscribed for the shares opposite their respective names:

F D Heatley, San Francisco	7,425
E Walter, George Road, London	7,425
J C Nicholson, San Francisco	50
R H Alexander, Vancouver	50
W C Ward, Victoria	50
Dennis Harris, "	1,500

G A Keefer, "	2,250
R E Jackson, "	750
C Strouss, Victoria and London	1,125
Peter Dunlevy, Soda Creek	375
do do do	375

Of the total shares subscribed for 14,900 are controled by Mr. Heatley and his friends, and 12,850 shares by the Hastings syndicate. The articles of incorporation states that so soon as $3.75 is paid up on each share, future calls can be made on the stock at the rate of 25 cents per share, but sixty days must intervene between the period of making each of such calls. The directors appointed are Messrs. W. C. Ward, R. H. Alexander, C. T. Dupont, F. S. Barnard and J. C. Nicholson. Mr. James L. Raymur has been appointed secretary. Mr. Alexander will continue in the management of the concern, with which he has been so long, and so acceptably connected. The head office of the company will be in this city.

ON THE WING.

Movements of People We Know and have Read of.

Wm. Black, government auditor for Manitoba, is in the city.

Mr. W. Weld, of the Ontario Farmer, London, Ontario, is a guest at the Driard.

Mrs. and Miss Frith, Calgary, and Miss Fielders, St. John, N. B., are at the Douglas House.

Mrs. J. C. McLagan and children returned from a six weeks' visit to the mainland on Sunday night.

Mr. F. C. Ambridge, traveling auditor of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company is in the city.

Mr. G. G. Ballentyne, of the Equitable Life Assurance Company, returned from an extended trip to the mainland on Saturday.

Mrs. F. C. Marshall has been summoned to Port Townsend, learning of the serious illness of her eldest boy Georgie. She returns to-day.

Mr. and Mrs. George Foulds, one of Winnipeg's heaviest real estate owners and a large investor in Port Moody property is at the Oriental.

Mr. Jas. Burridge, representing Messrs. E. and C. Gurney, Winnipeg, Toronto, Hamilton and Montreal, is in the city on business connected with that firm's extensive trade.

Mr. Edward Copland, general freight agent Minnesota and North Western Railway, Portland, spent Saturday and Sunday in Victoria, and left for home this morning.

Mr. W. B. Alley, editor of the Sun, Truro, Nova Scotia, is a guest at the Driard. He is a splendid specimen of the manly men raised in that port of the Dominion. He proposes to return east to-night, as does also Messrs. Warburton and Cotton of P. E. I.

Mr. D. W. Buchanan, editor of the Winnipeg Commercial, is in the city. This journal is now in the fifth year of its publication and is in every respect an excellent authority on the trade, commerce and finance of the Northwest Territories. It is, as its name denotes, a purely commercial journal and deserving of the generous support extended to it by the trading community of the Northwest. It is Mr. Buchanan's intention to remain in the province a few days longer. During his sojourn he will make a tour of our manufacturing establishments for the purpose of ascertaining the condition of that branch of our industries. Other interests will likewise be considered by him. We commend Mr. Buchanan and his excellent journal to the attention of our business men.

Mr. George Hess, M. P. P. for North Perth, and senior of the great furniture manufacturing company of Hess Bros., Listowel, Ont., is a guest at the Clarence. The Listowel concern is one of the most extensive furniture factories in Canada. In an almost incredible short period the business has assumed gigantic proportions, largely due to the enterprise and energy manifested by the head of the firm. These furniture now finds its way to every clime. This province is one of their best markets. Their goods give satisfaction to their patrons. At present Mr. Hess' firm is filling large orders for the Canadian Pacific Railway Company for the Banff, the Glacier and Vancouver hotels. He will remain in the city a few days longer. Mr. Hess is a German by birth, was born in Beerfeiden, in the Grand Duchy of Hesse, in Nov. 3, 1838. This is his second parliamentary term. He is a Conservative.

Mr. A. J. Belch, of Winnipeg, Inspector of the Mutual Reserve Fund Life Association, is a guest at the Clarence, where he will remain a few days. For many years Mr. Belch published the St. Mary's, Ont., Argus, subsequently he became attached to the early dailies of Winnipeg. In 1874 he was appointed Dominion Land Agent for Manitoba, which position he held until 1882, when he resigned to assume the management of the lands department of the Manitoba and North Western Railway. A change in the ownership of that road took place, which resulted in Mr. Belch's position being also changed. As a journalist Mr. Belch is one of the best all round men in the country. Equally capable is he as an executive officer. As a citizen, he is extremely popular with all classes. Few in the Northwest are better known or more familiar with the requirements of the country than is Mr. Belch, he having resided there since the early seventies. He will remain in the city for another week.

Too True.
